Rating Action: Moody's Affirms Aaa for Pomona College, CA; outlook stable

Global Credit Research - 16 Jul 2014

$185M rated debt

New York, July 16, 2014 -- Moody's Investors Service affirms Pomona College's Revenue Bonds Series 2005A, 2008A, 2009A, and 2011 issued through the California Educational Facilities Authority. The rating outlook is stable.

SUMMARY RATING RATIONALE:

The Aaa rating reflects Pomona College's exceptionally strong level of financial resources relative to debt and operations and strong student demand as an elite national liberal arts college. Although Pomona's operations remain robust, cash flow and surpluses have been thinning slightly in recent years due to the college's commitment to need blind admissions that has led to a growing financial aid budget and continues to constrain net tuition revenue growth.

Strengths

*The college's Aaa rating is anchored by its ample financial resources, with $1.46 billion of expendable financial resources covering pro-forma debt by 8.2 times and operations by 12 times for fiscal year (FY) 2013.

*Pomona has a national reputation as a highly selective liberal arts school contributing to steady enrollment, with 1,603 full-time equivalent (FTE) students in fall 2013. Student demand improved for the fall 2014 class, and the college is expecting to be up to 50 students over the freshman class budget.

*Operating cash flow is robust with an operating cash flow margin of 26.1% for FY 2013, reflecting management's focus on prudent expense management and endowment spending. FY 2014 projections indicate another strong year, with a moderately smaller surplus.

*Careful financial stewardship and conservative budgeting and long-range planning help cushion the college from investment market disruptions.

*Unrestricted liquidity is healthy, with $676 million of monthly liquidity translating to 1,895 days cash on hand.

Challenges

*Pomona is highly reliant on investment income, 56% of total operating revenues for FY 2013, requiring careful endowment management due to investment volatility.

*A commitment to accessibility and to meeting full need for admitted students results in a growing and less predictable financial aid budget, with tuition discounting increasing to 46.7% in FY 2013, up from FY 2011.

*Growth in expenses exceeds that of peers, with expenses growing by 6.3% in FY 2013, compared to the Aaa FY 2013 private university median of 4.9%.

Outlook

The stable outlook reflects the extraordinary financial flexibility and cushion that Pomona's financial resources afford the college. The outlook incorporates our expectation that the college will continue to translate its strong brand and reputation into healthy student demand, continued strong operations, with FY 2014 at a slightly more modest surplus, and continued resource growth to absorb upcoming capital projects.

What Could Change the Rating Up

Not applicable

What Could Change the Rating Down

Negative rating action would be prompted by sustained weakening of the college's balance sheet profile, either due to significant investment losses or large scale borrowing, or material declines in operating cash flow would result in a rating downgrade.
